SIMMERING AGAIN

In county and state elections scheduled for this summer already hats are poised, ready to be thrust into the political arena.
Several names are now being discussed, too, as successors to Governor Peery. The press makes mention of Congressman Burco as a definite organization candidate, with J. H. Price, lieutenant governor, talked by his counties friends, William E. Carson would probably like to run, and there is some talk of Thomas C. Cline running on a dry platform. Leaky old party officers will be up for reelection and there is little likelihood of opposition. With all the records to their credit, Appomattox county officials can be favorably with those of any other Virginia county.

Perhaps the chief local interest will be centered in the naming of a successor to the beloved Samuel Lewis Ferguson as state senator. Both by natural ability and training Colonel J. W. Flood is admirably suited for this important post and if he becomes a candidate, there is small likelihood of opposition. At any rate, the political hot is shimmering again in the old Dominion.

FOREST VIEW

Mrs. J. A. Martin, Correspondent

Forest View, Jan. 16.— Good morning, everybody. We hope 1935

will be a prosperous year for all readers of the Times-Virginian, especially "Mr. and Mrs. Editor."

The roads are in better condition

since no rain or freezing have bothered them lately.

The holidays passed off quietly,

with children visiting their home

folks.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Loughlin

and daughter, Helias, Mrs. Erie

Kwars, of Lynchburg, Mr. and Mrs.

Dick Pankay, of Lovington, Mr.

and Mrs. Walter Jordan and child

of Spring Mills, and J. R. Nash

of Appomattox, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Mrs. T. H. Layne returned to her home at Meffa after spending quite a while with her mother, Mrs. R.

W. Martin.

Mrs. B. C. Sims, of Lynchburg,

is no with her mother, Mrs. Willie

Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. N. D. Marshall spent

one day in the Christmas with Mr.

and Mrs. J. A. Martin.

Mrs. T. H. Ford, Mrs. Erie Ewers

and Miss Ruth Whitmore also visited in the home during the holidays.

Mrs. Collier Marshall, who spent the holidays with her people in

Pa., returned home a few days ago companied by her sister, who will stay a while with her.

W. Underwood, W. T. Nash has staid a lights in his home and

are. Congratulations to him on his progress.

Edo Mow has completed the road then to his home and has moved in.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. William

Ford, of Salisbury, Md., a baby boy weighed 10 lbs. 10 oz. at birth.

He is named William.

His mother is Mrs. W. T. Nash.
